Health and Safety Courses

NEBOSH National Certificate in Construction Health & Safety (Unitised Course)

What does the course cover?

This popular qualification is ideal for those with construction management responsibilities and also for those who are required to provide routine, day-to-day advice on health, safety and welfare in construction work. It is given as an example in the CDM ACOP 2007 as an indicator of competency for CDM Co-ordinators.

The Unitised National Certificate in Construction Health and Safety consists of three units:

- NGC1- Management of health and safety
- NCC1- Managing and controlling hazards in construction activities
- NCC2- Construction health and safety practical application

NGC1 and NCC1 are assessed by written examination and NCC2 by practical examination. Delegates will be required to complete the NCC2 examination within 7 days of sitting the examination for Units NGC1 and/or NCC1.

Please note that Unit NGC1 also forms part of the NEBOSH National General Certificate or Certificate in Fire Safety and Risk Management. Delegates who have already achieved this Unit as part of either qualification within the last five years can count it towards achieving their National Certificate in Construction Health and Safety and can be exempted from week 1 and just attend weeks 2 and 3.

Candidates for NCC1 and NCC2 are required to complete an application form to confirm eligibility for this exemption.

Who is the course suitable for?

For those who have responsibility for routine day to day control of Health and Safety in the Construction Industry. Holders of the National Certificate in Construction Safety & Health are eligible to apply for the TECH IOSH non-corporate membership level of IOSH.
